About the event

NICS Live

NICS Live is the biggest learning and development event in the NICS calendar, bringing together thousands of delegates eager to share, learn and network. The events showcase the diversity of work in the NICS and provide development opportunities for all staff. Delegates are equipped with new insight and best practice to take back to their departmental teams.

NICS Live has attracted the most influential figures from across government. Our past speakers include senior leaders and innovators from across the public and private sectors including the Head of Civil Service, permanent secretaries, and representation from all government departments.

Latest Information

Due to the ongoing impact of the coronavirus pandemic, we have taken the difficult decision to cancel the 2020 NICS Live conference.

The health and well-being of our delegates, partners and colleagues are at the forefront of our planning and our decision to cancel the 2020 events is in response to social-distancing measures and official guidance on large scale, indoor events. We expect to remain in place for the foreseeable future.

We would like to thank the various stakeholders who committed time to developing the 2020 programme.
